INTRODUCTION

The fact that you are reading this, places you and I in the same category – we are human beings living on the planet Earth. We are here to learn how to become human beings and not, contrary to popular belief, more spiritual. Before we came into this world, we were all perfect spiritual beings who had made a choice to come to the classroom called Earth in order to learn certain earthly lessons. Let us at least allow for the possibility that spiritually we are all still perfect. The journey through life on Earth can be so much richer when we learn our human lessons well and allow our spirits to shine through.

The purpose of this book is to assist you to transform your life through the process of getting to know yourself as a whole, numerologically to come to a deeper understanding of yourself and your environment. One person's life is no better than another's, nor is it any worse. Our lives are simply different. Neither is there a single truth. There are many aspects of the truth and this is merely my perception of a small portion of the truth that I am passionate about. During the course of the book I would like to share this perception with you. I believe that you and I are connected in a strange, yet wonderful way and every experience you have, has an effect on my life. I believe that we are all connected souls. It is said that a butterfly cannot flap its wings without having an effect on the star furthest from it. If this is true, can you imagine what a wonderful world this could be? Might we possibly be better humans if we seriously accepted the possibility that everything we did influenced others profoundly?

Numbers, like music, for example, work on a number of different levels. If we limit music to the use of one note – we would not have music – just a drone. In the same way seeing numbers solely as a means of addition, subtraction and making sense of our bank balances is to limit ourselves. Numbers work on different levels, as we exist on different levels. There is the physical level of concrete reality, utility and practicality. The levels beyond this include the spiritual and the mystical. Numbers operate here as well and this is where we encounter their power, mystery and magic.

MASTER YOUR NUMBER MASTER YOUR LIFE

We will be looking at the qualities of numbers zero to nine in detail in order to assist the reader to form a solid foundation from where we will personalize your date of birth and names. Instead of associating character types with numbers, we will apply the qualities of the numbers to your particular situation on more than one level, giving you the opportunity to rediscover your purpose, power and beauty.

All numbers have a significant meaning on both the lowest (physical) and highest (universal) planes. As physical beings, we exist in the moment and all our senses operate only in the 'here-and-now'. We also occupy space that is measurable by some device. However, we also operate on non-physical planes and in different time zones, as is evident when our thoughts travel back to a happy moment in the past, bringing the sounds, feelings etc into the present moment. In order to grasp the concept of different planes or levels of existence and time, a whole chapter has been dedicated to explain my perception of this phenomenon.

An aspect that I wish to pay particular attention to is certain higher numbers that is referred to as Master Numbers. These are often neglected in the study of numbers and I feel that the key to a better world lies in harnessing of the very special qualities of these numbers. Human beings are so often afraid of something that is different and it is frequently labelled as 'bad' in order to place it in context. There is perfection in good as well as bad, they are two opposites of the same thing and in order to find the harmony in the one, the other has to exist. They are merely different – no better nor worse.

I shall also be considering numerology from the perspective of the Qabalah (sometimes spelled Kabala or Cabbala) and more specifically the Tree of Life. This is where my personal journey of discovery started and although this is a book on Numerology, the connection with the Tree of Life will deepen your understanding of numbers. A diagram and a brief description of the Tree of Life is included in the dedicated section, chapter 7. Have you noticed how when you start exploring one subject, you become interested in another? This is probably due to the fact that not only are you and I connected, but also that everything is connected. Maybe this search for knowledge, through the study of numbers, will provide us with some answers, perhaps it will not. An open mind however, is necessary to start the journey.

INTRODUCTION

You may wish to use the Tarot as yet another angle to increase your understanding of numbers. I will frequently make reference to the Major Arcana of the Tarot in order to capture the essence of a number. The Tarot pack that I find most suitable is the Rider Waite pack, and although it is not a necessity, it will assist you to see an even greater picture of the scope of numbers.

Ever since the beginning of time, numbers have ruled our lives, directly or indirectly. This is clearly evident when we are told that the world was created by the spoken word in 7 days; no human beings existed at that stage and therefore no language was necessary. If language creates, imagine the importance of the spoken word! How often do we say things that we do not mean? How often do we ask for something and when it arrives at our door, we realize we never actually wanted it? How often do we hear things that have not been said? We, the human race, have indeed a lot more to learn about life on this planet.

We are all perfect spiritual beings that have chosen to be here in order to become better human beings through the process called Life.

Chapter One

HISTORY

All systems of Numerology are deeply rooted in Gematria, the science of the Hebrew Aleph Beth. However, for the sake of history, I would like to start the journey with the Creation process. According to the Sefer Yetzirah (Book of Foundation), the 22 letters of the Hebrew Aleph Beth were created first and their duties were to act as channels through which the process of creation took place. These 22 characters each contained specific energy that, when combined in a word, they manifested their particular energies onto the physical plane and Creation took place.

Pythagoras was a student of Gematria and from this he developed an interesting system, widely used by most Numerologists. He was born between 600 & 590BC and travelled most of his life. He settled in Italy at around 525BC and died between 500 & 490BC at the age of approximately 100. During his travels, his philosophies underwent tremendous evolution and his teachings reflect this very clearly. Strangely, he was never known by his name and was referred to as 'The Master' or 'That man'. He was widely recognized and respected as one of the first Philosophers of his time.

Pythagoras taught moderation in all things and that all things conform to one of 9 numbers. One of his philosophies was to assist man in raising his burden in order to realise his responsibilities and not to assist him in laying it down, i.e. help another by all means but never encourage them to escape their responsibilities. For Pythagoras it was important to decline public ways and to walk on unfrequented paths. Wisdom, he believed comes through solitude. Unfortunately, many records of his wise words were destroyed, leaving us with only 39 theories that have been translated. Fortunately, his numerological system did survive, giving us this opportunity to incorporate his wisdom into our own lives.

Please note that although Pythagoras' system was initially based on Gematria, it changed over the years into a well-recognized system in its own right. The direct translation from Gematria (without the evolutionary steps) is commonly known as Qabalistic numerology. Most of the principles applied in this book are based on Pythagoras' work.

Evolution is the Law of Life
Number is the Law of the Universe
Unity is the Law of God

I sincerely hope that you have enjoyed reading and studying this book as much as I have enjoyed writing it. While in the process of writing I realized that there is so much more that I would like to share with you and a decision was made to dedicate an entire book to Predictive Numerology. The intention of this book was to enable you to understand your own current situation and to use the various aspects of your life to enhance the weaker areas. I hope that I have achieved this.

I appreciate both positive and negative feedback. It is the only way that I can grow and do things different next time round. So if you like, you can drop me a line through my Internet connection at,
